Interesting Facts of Butler County

Butler County is primarily an agricultural county. True, it has two cities, one of 37,000 population and one of 15,000 population, Hamilton and Middletown, and a number of small villages, and almost nine-tenths of its people reside in these cities and villages.

But in the face of this, over 95 per cent. of all the land in Butler County is agricultural lands. The average value per acre of the agricultural lands in the county is about $60 per acre, according to the latest statistics.
