New grants offer relief for flood prone area

The City of Fairfield has received an unprecedented fourth major grant to purchase homes in flood prone areas along the Pleasant Run Creek. The latest funding, a $670,160 Clean Ohio Grant from the Ohio Public Works Commission, will be

- combined with a larger $2.7 million Federal
- Emergency Management Agency Hazard
- Mitigation grant that was awarded in 2010 for
- 17 additional homes.
- So far, Fairfield has purchased 31 homes in the - area, which has been periodically impacted by

- flooding. The designated homes involved in
- the most recent grant are located on Bandlerier
- Court, Banker Drive, Crystal Drive, Cedar
- Breaks Court, Carlsbad Court, Ivanhoe Drive,
- Sir Lancelot Lane and Nottingham Place.
- Acquisitions will be voluntary. Closings will
- begin in August, with all property acquisitions
- completed by December 2013.

Assuming all of the most recent 17 properties participate, the City will potentially have acquired 48 of the most at-risk properties. As with past purchases, the lots will be cleared and permanently preserved as open spaces. The resulting preserve is designed to provide additional flood protection for the remaining homes in the vicinity of the creek. The area will also serve as a contemplative area where residents will be provided with the opportunity to donate trees in memory or honor of loved ones.

In addition to securing federal and state grants to buy the most flood-prone properties, the City has also initiated a variety of additional measures to minimize the flood threat along the Pleasant Run Creek. Retention basins have been constructed near Resor and Winton roads to limit the flow, and ongoing maintenance of the creeks has added flow capacity which minimizes flooding.

A Walk in the Park...

Lifelong Fairfield resident James Johnson pauses to take in the view from the new overlook along the Pleasant Run Creek. He remembers swimming in the creek as a child back in the late 1930s not too far from the overlook. "The kids used to call it Symmes Creek back then," said Johnson. The overlook, just off the bend on Banker Drive, was constructed by Brendon Hoffart as a community project to earn his designation as an Eagle Scout.

The emerging park offers a walking path and will serve as the location for a memorial grove where residents can dedicate plantings in honor or memory of loved ones.

Consortium works to protect vast water reserves

We rarely think about it when we turn on the tap for a cold, refreshing glass of Fairfield's crystal clear water, but every drop of that water starts from a natural reservoir deep underground. Called the Great Miami Buried Valley Aquifer, the water resource is the source of water supplies for 300,000 people.

To protect the water supply, area users joined together in 1965 to form the Hamilton to New Baltimore Groundwater Consortium. The group's initial focus was to carefully monitor demand in order to avoid depletion of the aquifer. By the 1980s, environmental laws and regulations empowered the consortium to actively protect the supply from contamination. To safeguard the aquifer, the Consortium developed the first multi-jurisdictional plan in the 1990s to geographically identify critically sensitive groundwater areas. The plan, known as the Source Water Protection Plan, regulates potentially harmful substances within groundwater sensitive areas.

As a result of new Ohio Environmental Protection Agency regulations, the Consortium is currently revising and updating the Source Water Protection Ordinance. A new groundwater computer model has been developed that identifies the need to change some of the potential pollution source boundary areas. In the coming months, studies will be conducted to identify properties and businesses in the critical zones. The goal is to have a new Source Water Protection Plan adopted by the end of the year.

Consortium members include the cities of Fairfield and Hamilton, Butler County, Greater Cincinnati Water Works, Southwest Regional Water District, Southwest Ohio Water Company and Miller/Coors Brewing.

For more information on these efforts, please visit the Consortium's website at www.gwconsortium.org.

April rains test treatment plant

April was among the wettest months in recorded history. The record 14.8 inches of rainfall delayed farmers from planting their crops and presented homeowners with a myriad of drainage concerns.

Fortunately, City Council had anticipated months like April when it upgraded the wastewater system in the 1990s. As part of the $16 million upgrades, the construction designs included relief sewer systems, reserve holding basins, and operational strategies that worked flawlessly.

The excessive rainfall also challenged the staff at the Fairfield Wastewater Treatment Plant, where the relentless rains overwhelmed systems with record flows. Thankfully, decades of nationally recognized proactive work to seal the wastewater system from rainwater minimized the infiltration, but no system can be immune from the levels of rainfall experienced locally.

Despite the overwhelming deluge of wastewater every day in April, the City's Wastewater Plant and its staff processed flows without a single environmental compliance violation from the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

Fairfield budgeting now for future water upgrades

Fairfield's water distribution network is relatively young by national standards. However, the Public Utilities Department is already looking years ahead to not only avoid service interruptions, but also to plan for major repairs that will be necessary in the future. Since Fairfield's public utilities are largely self-funded by those using the system, advance planning will ensure the department is financially prepared for future updates.

Last year, the City contracted with O'Brien and Gere Engineering to help develop a capital asset plan that will serve as a guide when the City updates its capital improvements budget. With 169 miles of underground water mains, the planning is important.

Fairfield's oldest water mains — about half of those in use — are about 40 to 50 years old. They are comprised largely of cast iron mains.

The other half of Fairfield's system was installed between 1970 and 1980, when pipes were transitioning to a much more durable ductile iron pipe material with a useful life of at least 100 years. The study will detail a 30 to 50 year replacement schedule of older mains, allowing those and future replacements to be budgeted. It will also provide for better coordination with planned road work and repaving operations.

Ceremony to remember 9/11

Most of us remember where we were and what we were doing when the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001, targeted the World Trade Center Towers in New York City, the Pentagon in Washington, and Flight 93 in Pennsylvania. On the tenth anniversary of the 9/11 attacks, residents who gather for a Remembrance Ceremony at Village Green Park will likely remember that occasion as well.

Fairfield's Fire Department has memorialized fellow first responders who died in the World Trade Center when both towers collapsed. A large plaque at the entrance to Fire Headquarters on Nilles Road lists the names of firefighters and police officers who rushed into the structures to help others.

Among the names on the memorial is Michael Lynch, the brother of Fairfield resident Colleen Parigen. He was working overtime that fateful day and was among the first to enter the burning towers. Eleven out of 12 firefighters in his company were killed.

The ceremony is being planned and coordinated by Fairfield's Police and Fire Departments as a tribute to those who lost their lives and in celebration of emergency responders, civilians and military personnel. The event will include live music, food, guest speakers and a candlelight vigil, among other activities being planned.

The Remembrance Ceremony will begin with a concert at 4 p.m. featuring local Fairfield band Thunderbay and The Jubilee Brass Quintet. Thunderbay will perform a variety of popular music from the past 40 years. The Jubilee Brass Quintet will perform a variety of patriotic music leading up to the remembrance ceremony at 7:30 p.m. The quintet features vocalist and Fairfield resident Kim Newcomer. In addition to the music, vehicles from various Butler County Police and Fire Departments will be on display around Village Green Park and food will be available for purchase from Hammann's Catering.

Fairfield Mayor Ron D'Epifanio will serve as emcee for the Remembrance Ceremony. Speakers will include Middletown Fire Chief Steve Botts, with a keynote address from Doug MacMillan, long-time best friend of Todd Beamer who was on Flight 93 when it crashed near Shanksville, Pennsylvania. Mr. MacMillan helped Lisa Beamer, Todd's widow, establish the Todd M. Beamer Foundation. He is the former chief executive officer of the foundation.

Honor & Remember Flag to fly in honor of fallen soldiers

A new flag is flying outside the Fairfield Municipal Building following Fairfield City Council's unanimous support of the Honor and Remember Flag. The flag has grown in popularity across the country as a symbol of respect to Patriots making the Supreme Sacrifice in the name of freedom.

Residents who would like to fly the flag at their home can also have it personalized in the name of a loved one. For information about the Honor and Remember Flag, visit www.HonorandRemember.org.

Promoted as a new national symbol of gratitude and respect, the flag was conceived by the father of a young soldier who was killed in 2005 while on patrol in Iraq a few days after Christmas. The flags were funded via a grant from the Michael J. Colligan

Early findings of the 2010 Census
FAIRFIELD
Snapshot in Time

Last year's 2010 Census asked just 10 simple questions, but the answers produced a wealth of statistical data about communities across the nation. Detailed statistics relating to Fairfield can be found at www.fairfield-city.org/business/demographics.cfm.

According to the early data available from last year's Census:

- Fairfield's population was determined to be 42,510, about 400 more residents than officially documented in the last census in 2000. Of that total, 32,667 residents were 18 years of age or older.
- Initial data from the Census indicates the median age of Fairfield residents to be 38 years old, only slightly higher than the median age of 36 for all of Butler County.
- The Census also reports that Fairfield has 18,803 housing units. Of those housing units, 17,415 (92.6%) were occupied, with 1,388 (7.4%) unoccupied at the time of the Census.

As additional Census data is released, it will be available at www.fairfield-city.org/business/demographics.cfm

The 2005-2009 American Community Survey

The latest Census data appears to be consistent with the information generated by the Census Bureau in statistical estimates reported in its 2005-2009 American Community Survey (ACS). That survey, used by the business community for making strategic decisions, projected Fairfield's population to have been 42,268. Other projections included:

- 33,813 people were 16 years or older, with 23,222 considered to be in the civilian labor force. Of those 21,889 were employed.
- The mean (average) annual income was projected to be $67,152.
- The mean (average) retirement income was projected to be $27,796
- 91.7% of housing units were occupied, with 8.3% vacant.
- The majority of Fairfield homes (61.6%) were valued between $100,000 and $200,000.
- Of owner occupied dwellings, 77.9% had a mortgage, while 22.1 percent were owned free and clear of a loan.
- The number of children 3 years and older enrolled in some type of school program was projected to be 9,317. (527 in nursery school, 341 in kindergarten, 4,251 in grades 1-8, 2,280 in grades 9-12, 1,918 in college.)
- Of the estimated 32,758 people over the age of 18, 10% were Veterans.

The ACS provides detailed statistical data in four categories: Demographic and Housing, Economic, Housing and Social Characteristics. All the data is available in its entirety at www.fairfield-city.org/business/demographics.cfm.

Fairfield OH BUSINESS BOOSTER

August 2011

It pays to hire new employees NOW

Grant funds can help in hiring new workers

Art Friedrich, owner of Butler Water Systems in Fairfield, needed to hire an installer. He placed a job order with Workforce One of Butler County and quickly found out that if he hired a dislocated worker, he could tap into funds the state and county are offering to help defray the costs of hiring.

For Friedrich — and the worker he hired — it was a win-win situation. The on-the-job training program allows employers to recoup up to half of a worker's wages during the period of training, so long as that worker was on, or had exhausted, his or her unemployment benefits. Every job, no matter how simple, involves some training. The more complicated the job, the longer the training period. This program is tailored to meet the employer's needs, as well as the demands of the particular job.

Businesses interested in finding out more about the program can contact Business Services Representative Kathleen Williams at Workforce One of Butler County at willik09@odjfs.state.oh.us or 785-6511. As the economy continues its recovery, more Butler County employers are taking advantage of this program. 🌐

New industrial project under construction

During the economic recession very little new industrial construction activity occurred, but as the economy slowly improves some projects are beginning to emerge. One such project is a new regional facility for Safety-Kleen Systems, Inc.

Safety-Kleen is a national provider of recycling, industrial and environmental services with over 400,000 business clients. The company specializes in the environmentally-responsible collection and proper handling of petroleum, oils, and aqueous based industrial cleaning products. It has more than 150 locations across the United States, including five in Ohio.

Safety-Kleen is currently serving the regional market from an aging facility in Sharonville. Construction recently began on a new 12,000 square foot transfer facility at a 2.75 acre site on Thunderbird Lane. When construction is complete in early 2011, the company expects to employ 20-25 workers at the location.

Richard Goodwin, Safety-Kleen's Ohio Area Manager, reports "We are very excited about our upcoming move to our new facility in Fairfield, and we look forward to being a part of the Fairfield business community for years to come."

For more information about Safety-Kleen Systems, visit www.safety-kleen.com. 🌐

“Al Fresco” dining growing in popularity

New protection law safeguards water supplies

New mandates of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency have prompted the creation of an updated groundwater computer model to identify the need to change some of the potential pollution source boundary areas affecting the Great Miami Buried Valley Aquifer, the source of drinking water for 300,000 area residents (see story on page 2).

This remapping is expected to have minimal impact on Fairfield area businesses. Early indications are that businesses located on the outer limits of the aquifer will most likely be removed from the Source Water Protection Area. 🌱

There’s something extraordinary about eating outdoors at a restaurant during pleasant weather. In many parts of the world, outdoor dining is common. Outside dining has a certain allure... somehow the combination of fresh air and the pulse of the surrounding world seem to make food taste even better.

The popularity of al fresco dining has been growing in this country in recent years. Italian for “outdoors” or “in the open air,” it has long been a European tradition. In warmer climates, dining outdoors is possible year round. In Ohio, however, al fresco dining is around for a limited time only.

Just in time for the more moderate temperatures of late summer and early fall, new outdoor dining options are being readied at several Fairfield eating establishments. J. Gumbo’s (along Boymel Drive) and Gordo’s Pub and Grill (at Jungle Jim’s) both opened recently with attractive patio areas available for patrons to enjoy lunch or dinner.

Richards Pizza on Nilles Road recently added a 40-person patio area with a peaceful water feature to accommodate outdoor seating. Owner Karen Underwood says she enjoys dining outside while traveling around the United States and Europe.

“We wanted to bring our favorite dining experiences from our travels back home to Fairfield,” she said.

In addition to these three new options, Symmes Tavern on the Green has offered outdoor dining at its location in the heart of Village Green since its opening. Patio seating is especially popular during events at nearby Village Green Park.

So this fall, get out and enjoy the nice weather and a tasty meal at one of Fairfield’s fine establishments! 🌱

Servatii’s coming to Fairfield!

Ellery

INDIE-ROCK/FOLK

Ellery is husband-wife duo Tasha and Justin Golden, who went from friends to engaged in 4 fast days. Their music reflects the kind of emotional sensitivity and confidence that would turn a moment of spontaneity into some kind of indie-rock fairytale. The duo, known for their acoustic lush-pop, has garnered awards and acclaim since their debut in 2006. Honing their sound through extensive touring, the band has shared the stage with luminaries Hem, Vienna Teng, Teddy Thompson, Over the Rhine and Dar Williams. Ellery is known for their emotional style, as well as for their endearing approachability both on-stage and off.

"The couple's melodic, elegant sound... with their wonderful introspective lyrics is perhaps perfect. Tasha's heavenly, achingly beautiful voice completes what amounts to a laid-back, mesmerizing performance package."

Daphne Alderson

TRIBUTE TO JUDY GARLAND

Critically acclaimed as an artist of "dignified passion" by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, Daphne Alderson's warm, contralto voice has moved and delighted audiences of all ages. Her debut recording A Matinee at the Love Cafe has been called, "An enchanting and mesmerizing" collection of American, French, and Latin song standards. All Heart, All Judy is a tribute to the beloved American icon, Judy Garland. Alderson does not mimic or channel Garland, but honors her with a beautiful performance in her own style. She succeeds admirably with songs ranging from the audience favorite "The Boy Next Door" to the more esoteric "I Could Go on Singing (Till the Cows Come Home)" and "I Love a Piano" from Easter Parade.

Screaming Orphans

POP-ROCK INFLUENCED TRADITIONAL IRISH

Four funny, high-spirited, musically-obsessed sisters with the good fortune to have been raised in the magic of Bundoran in County Donegal, Ireland. After starting as Sinead O’Connor’s back-up band, appearing on David Letterman, the sisters soon went out on their own. They recorded with Peter Gabriel and were backing vocalists on Joni Mitchell’s “Magdalene Laundries” and on the Chieftains’ “Tears of Stone” album. While they never forget their roots in traditional Irish music, the Orphans draw from a diverse set of influences, from Simon & Garfunkel to REM, with a strong focus on melody-driven songs with pop and rocks strains. Their sound has been compared to, “the Bangles meet the Cranberries with a touch of Indigo Girls.”

Ball In The House

A CAPPELLA GROUP

5 guys. 5 voices. That’s it! Following in the path of classic harmony groups like Boyz II Men, The Temptations, and Take 6, the five-member vocal band brilliantly blends a wide range of influences, from classic R&B to pop, hip-hop & gospel. They have performed with such artists as The Beach Boys, Gladys Knight, The Jonas Brothers, Jessica Simpson, Fantasia, The Temptations, Smokey Robinson, KC & The Sunshine Band, and numerous others. All a cappella, but a sound that will astound and amaze you. The Boston Globe put it very succinctly, “Ball in the House has everything you would expect to find in a successful pop-rock band...the one thing it doesn’t have is instruments.” Note special Tuesday night performance.

Michael Kent

MAGIC AND COMEDY

Michael Kent became interested in magic at the age of three, when he learned he could make himself disappear by covering his eyes. This was just the first in a lifetime of amazing accomplishments. After graduating from college, it became his job. He's performed all over the country, met lots of people — even wrote a book. In a style reminiscent of a late-night talk show, Michael invites the audience to laugh with him at the absurdity of a modern-day magician. Through his combination of irreverent sense of humor and mind-blowing magic, Michael allows his audiences to experience what it's like when a stand up comic performs (and occasionally pokes fun at) the art of magic. Grades 5 and up.

Mad Science

Get ready for some fun with Mad Science! Our programs allow students to get their hands-on awesome experiments in a safe environment. Lessons are inquiry-based with an emphasis on the interaction between students and science. Instructors are highly trained and know how to present the science in an entertaining and engaging manner. To keep the fun going, students and parents love the take home items that come with every class. Class size is limited so sign up today! Topic's include:

"Fun"-damental Forces: Gravity...

Inertia... Centripetal force... who could ever imagine that an introduction to physics could be so much fun? We'll experience these awesome forces for ourselves and build some cool devices to watch them at work!

Fantastic Flyers: The Wright Brothers would be proud as we follow in their footsteps and learn the fundamental principles of flight. Build a "football" glider, control surfaces and your very own loop-flying stunt plane. You'll be a Top Gun after this class!

Under Pressure: Join Bernoulli and Newton as we take this exciting look at the science behind aerodynamics and the properties of air... under pressure. Use a vortex generator to create air pockets with a punch, and levitate ping-pong balls in defiance of gravity!

Rocket Demo: Discover the dynamics of rocket flight. Touch and feel our scale rockets while learning how and why they fly. Take part in a NASA-style launching of model rockets that soar into the air and then return to earth by parachute...

Rocket Building: Build your very own model rocket... A great way to investigate space flight and aerodynamics! (2 weeks)

Emerald Ash Borer: Advancing slowly but steadily

A few years ago, every local publication carried warnings of an impending invasion of the Emerald Ash Borer (EAB), a small metallic green bug that spelled doom for ash trees indigenous to the Midwest. So far, the bug's heaviest impact can be found in northwest Ohio, with pockets of activity in the Columbus area and along the I-75 corridor.

To slow its progress, all of Ohio remains under a quarantine which prohibits the transportation of ash trees, parts of ash trees and all firewood outside of quarantined areas.

INSTANCES OF EAB ACTIVITY

Source: Ohio Department of Agriculture

In preparation, the City of Fairfield adopted an EAB management plan, which included the purchase of trunk injector equipment to chemically protect public ash trees. The equipment has been used to treat high profile ash trees on City-owned property. The treatment protects an ash tree for a two year period. Most of Fairfield's EAB prevention was undertaken in 2010, with re-treatment scheduled next summer.

So far, there have been no reports of EAB infestations anywhere in Fairfield. In fact, the Ohio Department of Agriculture reports only three confirmed instances of EAB activity in all of Butler County. Two reports have been cited in extreme northeastern Liberty Township and one in Hamilton west of the Great Miami River.

While the EAB has not advanced as rapidly as news stories of a few years ago may have suggested, the insect remains active and area ash trees are still at risk.

The insect kills ash trees within three to five years of infestation. Adults are dark metallic green, 1/2 inch in length and 1/8 inch wide, and fly only from mid-May to September. Larvae spend the rest of the year developing beneath the bark.

For more information, visit www.agri.ohio.gov/eab.

2011 Fairfield Tree Lottery

The City of Fairfield is holding its annual Tree Lottery. Vouchers redeemable for trees at local nurseries will be awarded to 20 single-family property owners in the City of Fairfield. Can you provide a good home for a tree? With just a little water and care, a tree can grow up to be a valued part of your property! All single-family residents in Fairfield that own their property and have room to plant a tree within the guidelines of the ordinance are eligible to enter. The guidelines are as follows:

- Only single-family resident owners within the city limits are eligible to participate.
- Property owners who fail to properly maintain their current street trees or a lottery tree will not be eligible to participate in future lotteries.
- A property owner cannot win a tree in two consecutive years.
- All trees must be planted within the corporate limits of Fairfield and, if in the public right-of-way, in accordance with the city's tree ordinance.
- Decisions made by the Environmental Commission are final.

Looking ahead: Fall safety with outdoor fires

With the blistering heat of a long hot summer, thoughts of building an outdoor fire may be the last thing on residents' minds. The seasons will soon change and residents will be collecting wood for some outdoor warmth.

A dry summer means that extra care must be observed before building an outdoor fire, whether the flames are in a fire pit, chimineas, or for a neighborhood bonfire. The City of Fairfield has specific regulations in place to ensure the safety of outdoor fires.

Bonfires

Whether it is a neighborhood tradition or a festivity before a big football game, bonfires can be a dangerous event. Bonfires within the city limits require a specific permit from the Fairfield Fire Department. The permit is necessary to ensure that a structure or

- combustible materials are not within 50 feet of the flames.

Fire Pits

- Fire pits have grown in popularity in recent years, providing a relaxing setting for outdoor get-togethers. Fire pits can be comprised of a simple pit, a freestanding fireplace or an elaborate portable above-ground unit. A permit is not required for use of a fire pit, but safety is must. Before starting a fire in an outdoor fire pit, clear combustible material away within 15 feet of the pit.

All below ground pits must be at least four inches in depth and surrounded by non-combustible material, such as brick, masonry or steel. Yard waste cannot be placed into the fire. The pit must be maintained in a rear yard, on private property, and cannot be placed in an easement.

Open Burning/Recreational Fires

- Open burning is a dangerous practice. Regulations require such a fire to be at least 25 feet away from any combustible structure. The materials burned cannot be any larger than three feet in diameter and no more than two feet in height.

Materials cannot produce offensive or objectionable odors or smoke. The fire cannot be ignited when atmospheric conditions or local circumstances would make such a fire hazardous.

Burning of yard waste is prohibited. Materials considered yard waste include grass, leaves, prunings, brush, shrubs, garden materials, Christmas trees and tree limbs up to four inches in diameter.

Outdoor Grills

Fairfield fire codes prohibit the use of charcoal and gas grills on combustible balconies/decks or within 10 feet of combustible construction. The law exempts one and two-family homes and buildings where a balcony or deck is protected by an automatic sprinkler system. While prohibiting traditional gas grills from use on decks, balconies or near walls of multi-family construction, the code does permit the use of small tabletop grills utilizing small cylinders of less than one pound propane gas. In most cases, such grills are typically associated with camping equipment.

Could your summer project be a winner?

There is plenty of time to enter this year's Beautiful Fairfield Home Improvement Contest. Sponsored by the City of Fairfield, Jungle Jim's and Kroger, the friendly competition is open to residents who recently have undertaken (or will be starting) an interior/exterior improvement project, a significant exterior landscaping project, or a "green" project (a new category introduced last year). The "green" category can include a home/landscape project that protects the environment, re-uses/protects natural resources, and/or reduces energy consumption.

THE HOME IMPROVEMENT CONTEST

- Winners will receive a $500 gift certificate to Jungle Jim's or Kroger for first place or one of two $250 gift certificates for runners-up. In the new "green" project category, judges will award up to $1,000 in gift certificates. All projects must have obtained all required permits.

Entries should include one "before" and one "after" picture, along with a brief project description (100 words or less). Entries will be accepted until 4:30 p.m. on September 16. Winners will be

- announced in October.

- For more information, contact the Fairfield Building & Zoning Division at 867-5318 or buildingandzoning@fairfield-city.org.

Zoning law sets grass height to 8 inches maximum

For the vast majority of property owners, yard care is a regular duty. Some yards, however, fall short of neighbors' expectations. The neglect of one property can impact property values for others. Illness or mower problems may be a factor in keeping up on regular yard care, but long term neglect — especially if a property is abandoned — becomes a neighborhood eyesore. That's when the City has the responsibility and authority to step in.

The problem is that the City may be unaware of an issue if neighbors do not call to report a concern. The Fairfield Building and Zoning Department has inspectors who make rounds on occasion, but may still be weeks from finding a zoning violation that initiates legal involvement. Neighbors who spot a potential problem may anonymously report their concern by calling 867-5318.

Under City ordinance, lawns cannot have grass higher than eight inches. City crews, however, cannot take action to address overgrown yards until required legal action takes its course. That legal action usually is a four-week process. By then grass can be several feet high.

The process begins with a notice sent by certified mail to the property owner of record. In the case of overgrown lawns, a five day notice is required. If the problem is litter and unsightly debris, a property owner is provided with 15 days notice to address the concern.

In some cases, the certified mail is returned undelivered and the whereabouts of a lawful owner is not known, requiring the publication of a legal ad before the City can take action to clean up the property.

Once the issue is resolved through the appropriate legal channels, a property owner is responsible for the costs associated with maintaining a property. In addition to fines levied against the homeowner, the City alerts the County Auditor as to the costs of clean-up. An assessment or lien on the property is made to secure the costs to clean up the unkempt yard.

In past years, the City maintained 60 to 80 vacant properties. Crews are now maintaining about 90 properties. The increase is likely the result of foreclosure issues.

Reporting a problem

Neighbors of properties with maintenance or zoning issues are encouraged to contact Building Inspection and Zoning at 867-5318 to initiate City involvement. In most cases the property owner will remedy the issues. If not, prompt action can be taken to minimize the time necessary before the City steps in to maintain the property. Names of those filing complaints are not required and are never reported to a property owner contacted as a result of the complaint.

When X marks the spot

It happens. You come home from work and there it is, a big white "X" sprayed on a block or two of your sidewalk. That's when you realize that your neighborhood was in the four-year rotation for sidewalk inspections and replacement.

The replacement is required for safety reasons:

- Any block having a crack more than 1/2-inch wide.
- Adjoining blocks or portions thereof whose edges differ vertically by more than 1/2-inch.
- Blocks that have holes in them 1/2-inch or larger in diameter or are cracked and broken so that pieces are missing or loose.
- Blocks with depressions or reverse cross-slopes (sloping away from the street).
- Blocks with a cross-slope in excess of 3/4-inch vertical per one foot horizontal.
- Blocks that cause a change in longitudinal grade of the sidewalk of more than 3-inches in five feet.

■ Blocks where the surface has broken away exposing a very rough surface of coarse stone (this condition is known as "spalling").

■ Brick, stone or sandstone sidewalks are prohibited.

■ Water stop boxes, gas stop boxes, etc., that are not to proper grade will be replaced.

Property owners can undertake the work themselves or hire a contractor. Work must meet City standards and pass an inspection. Many property owners allow the City to undertake the work and accept an assessment that can be paid in full upon receipt or over time with their semi-annual taxes. Typically, a block of sidewalk will cost about $180 to replace. Homeowners are not charged for sections of sidewalks that provide a pedestrian crossing point at an intersection.

Questions about sidewalk replacement can be directed to the Public Works Department at 867-4218.

These officers have a nose for crime

With the push of a remote control that pops open the back door of the police car, these four-legged police officers can swing into action the moment their partner sees trouble. And once they hit the ground, only the vocal command of their partner can stop an advance.

Fairfield utilizes two highly skilled canines, both certified by the Ohio Peace Officer Training Academy, for patrol duties and for sniffing out drugs.

Rex and Ketcher may be dogs, but they are recognized by Ohio law as full-fledged police officers. Each canine is teamed with an officer whose responsibility it is to care for the animal both at work and in leisure, thus creating an indestructible bond.

Officer Cresap & Ketcher

Ketcher is an eight-year-old sable colored German Shepherd from Slovakia. He has been on the job since 2004 when he was paired with Officer John Cresap, an 11 year veteran of the Fairfield Police Department. Not only is Ketcher OPOTA certified, he is also certified by the North American Police Work Dog Association.

- Officer Cresap has been a police officer for 25
- years, beginning his career in law enforcement
- with the U.S. Air Force at Altus Air Force Base
- in Oklahoma. He continued his law
- enforcement career in Oklahoma at the
- Tillman County Sheriff's Office and the Altus
- Police Department. After seven years in
- Oklahoma, he accepted a position in Ohio
- with the Warren County Sheriff's Department.
- Three years later he joined the Fairfield Police - Department.

- Officer Cresap and Ketcher work the second
- shift.

Officer Corner & Rex

- Rex is a six year old German Shepherd from
- the Czech Republic. He joined the Fairfield
- Police Department in 2006, when he was
- assigned to Officer Rob Corner, who began
- his career with Fairfield in 1998. In
- addition to having OPOTA certification,
- Rex is also certified through the United
- States Police Canine Association.

Officer Corner is no stranger to canine patrol having served with Zeus, Fairfield's first canine unit. Zeus worked the streets from 1999 to 2005, when an illness ended his career and, eventually, his life. It was understandably a difficult time for Officer Corner, who lost not only his trusted partner, but one of his best friends.

Before joining the Fairfield Police Department, Rob worked with the Fairfield Township and Greenhills Police Departments. He has also served with the Ohio Army National Guard for the past 20 years. He has been deployed twice, most recently returning from Iraq where he was a platoon sergeant of a detachment that provided armed escort for convoys taking supplies and ammunition to combat troops.

Officer Corner and Rex are assigned to the third shift.

Fall Citizen Police Academy seeks interested participants

Residents and those who work in Fairfield can gain a unique perspective on the operations of the Fairfield Police Department by signing up for an upcoming Citizen Police Academy. The next series of classes will begin in mid-September.

Topics covered in the 10 weekly classes include crime scene processing, search and seizure, use of force, crime prevention, investigations, traffic stops, the judicial system and canine operations. Classes typically meet on Monday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Fairfield Police Department.

In addition to classroom presentations,

- participants also have the opportunity to
- ride with an officer while on regular patrol
- to get a personal look at actual field
- operations.

- Not only does the academy provide a wealth
- of information to participants, but it also
- allows the department to have interaction
- with residents who can provide feedback
- relating to the operations of the Fairfield
- Police Department.

- Applicants will be required to pass a
- criminal background check before they can
- participate. Those interested in
- participating in the series should contact
- Officer Dennis Valentini at 896-8292 or
- dvalentini@fairfield-city.org.

Landscaping completed on SR4

Thanks in large part to federal transportation and Community Development Block grants, beautification efforts like those on the southern end of State Route 4 in Fairfield have now been completed north of Symmes Road. Landscaping has been undertaken in the public right-of-way to further enhance the area.

The upgrades are not only to enhance the area, they are also an investment to attract

- new business and industry. The work is a
- continuation of a 2007 City Council initiative
- to make the State Route 4 corridor more
- attractive to motorists and business owners.
- The recent plantings are designed to
- complement the gateway at the overpass near
- St. Clair Avenue.

- Plantings are designed to withstand the rigors
- of the urban environment, including plants
- that are resistant to the salt used on roads in
- the wintertime.

These yellow signs are all “green”

The new school speed limit signs on North Gilmore by Fairfield High School may flash yellow, but they are all “green.” The signal that warns motorists of the approaching school zone is powered by solar cells.

The signs are also used near South Elementary (shown at left). The purchase of the new signs is the result of a partnership with the Fairfield City School District. The signs are being installed as a safety measure since there will be no bus service to the high school in the new school year.

The signs are currently on order, but are expected to be in place when schools open in the fall.

About your City income taxes...

Federal tax extensions expire on October 15. If you filed a federal extension, your city taxes are due on October 15. In addition, third quarter estimated tax payments are due October 31. Taxpayers owing $200 or more in city income taxes are required to have at least 90% of their tax liability paid before January 31, 2012. Taxpayers with outstanding balances should contact the Fairfield Tax Office at 867-5327 with questions or to make payment arrangements to minimize interest and penalties. The next installment is due on October 31.

Groh Lane gets improvements

Residents who are active with youth football or who drive on Groh Lane beyond Water Works Park to access the bike paths or the Water Treatment Plant will soon have much smoother driving. The narrow access lane is to be replaced in late summer with a completely new two-lane roadway that will have a shoulder, guardrails and pavement markings. Additionally, the road will have improved storm water systems installed.

The project will realign the road west onto City property. The $240,000 project is expected to be completed in October. The improvements will also promote development of the proposed Field of Dreams baseball complex designed to serve children with disabilities.

Scholarships available for Parks programs

Scholarship opportunities are available to give residents of all ages the opportunity to participate in programs at the Fairfield Community Arts Center. Under the program 50% matching scholarships are available through the Megan Filipek Scholarship Fund, established in memory of former lifeguard and clerk Megan Filipek. Applications are available at the Fairfield Community Arts Center, 411 Wessel Drive.

When traffic lights are dark

While traffic signals at many of Fairfield's busiest intersections have back-up systems for power failures, motorists are reminded about Ohio law as it relates to an intersection where traffic lights are dark from a power outage. An intersection that has an inoperable signal becomes an all-way stop, with motorists coming to a complete stop and alternating right of way for proceeding through the intersection.

Failure to treat a darkened traffic signal as an all-way stop can result in a moving violation.
